Observe Skin Scanner

Are you struggling to find the right skincare products that suit your skin type? Do you want to know what's really going on beneath the surface of your skin? Discover your skin's true needs and get the best possible results from your skincare routine using an Observe 520x skin scanner. During the scanning process, the Observe 520x skin scanner emits different wavelengths of light that penetrate your skin at various depths. These wavelengths interact with the skin's components, revealing important information about your skin's condition. The images produced by the scanner are then analysed by our experienced clinicians to identify any areas of concern and provide you with personalised skincare advice.
